VICTORIA -- No one knows exactly how the divergences in a governing document being written by the B.C. Liberal Party will be resolved, but the answer might be at the top of the page. Premier Christy Clark is the glue that holds the mess together, and to get the Liberals elected, she'll have to be. For NDP Leader John Horgan, the answer is simple: raise the minimum wage. In their first leaders' debate this week -- and probably their last -- the B.C. Liberal Party candidates for most seats in the May 9 election were in full-throated agreement: the voters are looking for change. "We're not going to give them a choice of the status quo,"
