Downsides of Using Photoshop However, there are also some downsides to using Photoshop, the biggest being that the program is extremely complex. The learning curve is steep. You need a working knowledge of layers, masks, and even vectors (or non-computer-based art) to be successful with Photoshop. Don't be surprised if you have to spend some time learning how to use it, and maybe even invest in tutorials to help you get a better understanding of how it works. Also, you can lose patience with Photoshop because of its steep learning curve. Even after an image is edited, you'll be called on to find ways to edit it again. For example, you'll want to use layers to make text or logos appear in an image. In the next chapter we'll cover how to use layers to add text in Photoshop. Once you have the layer and the text on the layer created, it will be difficult to add those elements back to your image again, even if they've had their color changed or

---

Q: How to use  $\text{ewtheorem}^*$  environment (multiple paragraphs) I want the citation to appear a bit below the theorem, which is currently appear at the very end of the proof. However, the suggested solution doesn't work with the amsthm package (I might not understand it well). Also, I do not know how to display quotations Here is a minimal example:

\documentclass{article}
\usepackage{amsthm}
\theoremstyle{break}
\newtheorem{clr}{Clause}
\newtheorem{len}{Lemma}
\begin{document}
\begin{clr} -p
```

---

```
&\longleftarrow& eg
p \\ eg p \text{ is true} &\longrightarrow& eg
eg p \\ \end{clr}
Theorem~\ref{t1}
\begin{proof} (2)~$p
\longrightarrow q$~
This is
theorem~\ref{clr},
which~
requires~\cref{t1}.
\end{proof}
\end{document} I can't

---

make the citation appear any earlier. Also, "This is theorem" is not what I want to display, but I don't know how to display the quotation. A: You can use the `amsthm` `\amsthm` like that:

```
\documentclass{article}
\usepackage{amsthm}
\theoremstyle{break}
\newtheorem{clr}{Clause}
\newtheorem{lem}{Lemm
```

---

```

a} ewcommand\textcite[
1]{\cite[#1]{clr} }
\begin{document}
\begin{clr} -p
&\longleftarrow& eg
p \ \ eg p \text{ is true} &\longrightarrow& eg
eg p \ \ \end{clr}
\textcite{clr}
\begin{proof} (2)~$p
\longrightarrow q$~
This is
theorem~\ref{clr},

Fahrenheit 9/11 An attack that has become a defining line of thought in the international left has just been unveiled. After years of frustration and indeed paralysis at the sight of the Bush administration proffering American exceptionalism as the explanation for the Iraq conflict, the left has decided to fire back, using the same allegations to take on American politics and the media as a whole. Led by Jeremy Scahill and others at The Nation, this has resulted in the publication of an open letter (via HuffPo) which has now been signed by many more prominent antiwar writers and activists.

---

This publication

---

William Crain letter I'm not going to go through this list in detail, but in general terms it simply suggests that the war in Iraq was not right, that the US is not a great country, that it has never done any good in the world and that the media has done nothing but lie about it. As one might expect, it carries with it the usual total contempt for American nationalism, speaking of it as "a myth," clearly implying that there is some other, better America, of which the US is not a part. The whole stance has to be taken with a large grain of salt, not least because all the signatories are far too close to the subject to have a completely detached outlook. But it is certainly interesting to see someone call for the rise of a new

---

---
