A real-time solution for Mac Feel free to use the list I've made above in order of preference. Just copy the HTML code for a printable list of desktop wallpapers. How to download the desktop wallpapers There is a folder named 'wallpaper' in the 'Downloads' folder of your Mac. Copy it to a portable drive. If you want to sync the folder with an online account, you can: Download the 'wallpaper' folder from the website to your computer. You will need to select the 'Applications' folder and paste it into your 'Downloads' folder. Then you can open the folder with your Mac browser and check the sync status. Find the 'wallpaper' folder in the Downloads folder of your Mac. If you can't find it, do this: Open a Finder window and press 'Command+G'. Type 'wallpaper' and press 'Enter'. Select 'wallpaper' and press 'Command+Enter'. If it's still not there, select 'Downloads' and press 'Command+Shift+G'. Type 'wallpaper' and press 'Enter'. Select 'wallpaper' and press 'Command+Enter'. Mac OS Windows When the 'wallpaper' folder is synced with an online account, it will appear in the list of downloads in your desktop browser. Set as desktop wallpaper To set a wallpaper, right-click on an empty area of the desktop and choose 'Set Desktop Picture' from the shortcut menu. Alternatively, press 'Command+Spacebar+' (or 'Win+Spacebar+') and enter 'Wallpaper' from the drop-down list. Adobe Photoshop Open the images you want to use for the desktop wallpaper. Right-click on an empty area of the desktop and choose 'Set Desktop Picture'. Open the images in Photoshop and save them in the 'Wallpaper' folder in the 'Downloads' folder of the hard drive. View and modify images A handy trick to crop and resize images is to drag the image with the mouse while holding down the Option (or Ctrl) key and then release it. This will apply the crop and resizing commands, respectively. The same trick can be used to invert the colors of images. Right-click the image and choose 'Invert'. This will flip each color component of the image. 05a79cecff

ToiS: the ultimate noontime snack I'm a huge fan of the avocado. No, seriously, I love them. If we're talking avocado appetizers, I'll take a slice of ripe avocado and a drizzle of lime juice on top of homemade crackers, or my all-time favourite, slices of avocado on top of fresh strawberries. When we want something a little more filling, I make a dish from our menu and I'll put avocado on top. If I want it a little more cheesy, add cheese. If I want it a little more spicy, add a dash of chipotle sauce. The same goes for seafood; I love to spike that avocado with shrimp. Lately, I've been taking a meal break where I'm on top of my game. I sit down and take a few bites of ToiS, our noontime snack. ToiS (pronounced toe-ess) is the new, delicious, classic bar snack. A savoury omelette topped with all the flavour of a classic salted egg. ToiS, that's the name. It's a mix of savoury ingredients that come together in a way that tastes like the perfect omelette. ToiS consists of soft scrambled eggs, bacon, tomato, cheddar cheese, onions and garlic. We really love the uniqueness of a savoury omelette, and the flavour of fresh ingredients just can't be beat. We baked the ToiS this week in a cast iron pan, and it was a big hit. When you're making ToiS, you want the eggs to be soft and the cheese, tomato and bacon to come together in a way that's almost like a sauce. You want just enough liquid in there to help everything come together, but not so much that it's too runny. The secret is the lean, quality ingredients. We use eggs, bacon, tomatoes and cheese that are all very fresh, and we use a grill pan, so our omelettes are super crispy and delicious. You can make a breakfast omelette and serve that as your noontime snack, or you can make this an all-American meal, with eggs, bacon, cheese and onion as the main components. That'

System Requirements:

For Mac: MacOS 10.11+ For Windows: Windows 7+ Recommended OS: OS X 10.13 Steam Client version: v0.9.14+ I've been meaning to change up the release notes for a while. Part of the problem is that I do a whole lot of testing during development and I don't always make the notes available. I'm starting to be a lot more diligent about keeping notes and I thought it would be a good time to start sharing the notes
