Q: Add leading "0" in shell command output In bash shell, one can get the screen size and display it by the following command: $ echo $COLUMNS I can also get the color depth and display it by the following command: $ echo $COLUMNS_BPP However, it displays 0 for those two parameters. Is there a convenient way of getting those two information, add "0" in front of them? I'm looking for something like following: $ echo $COLUMNS$COLUMNS_BPP Thank you in advance! A: You can use printf: $ printf "%d " "$COLUMNS" "$COLUMNS_BPP" And to add leading 0 you can use sed $ echo "$COLUMNS" | sed -
