Protein A-coated agarose microspheres as an affinity chromatographic immunoabsorbent. Protein A (PRA), which was covalently coupled to agarose microspheres, was utilized for the immunoaffinity purification of anti-C1q immunoglobulin G from serum.

Immunoglobulin G was extracted from C1q-containing serum by an immunoabsorption procedure using PRA-coupled agarose microspheres in an inorganic medium. The adsorption occurred through the mechanism of immunoabsorption and negligible nonspecific adsorption was observed. The adsorbed proteins were eluted with a buffer containing 2.5 M ac
