What's new in Prehistoric Dude:

Well, perhaps you still haven't found out about the Tower of Tan Dun??????? Well, you might like to. 'The Tower of Tan Dun' was released in 2005. It was the main theme song of Chinese TV series, 'The story of the western Han Dynasty'. Although it is almost impossible to understand the lyrics of the song because of the language (Mandarin), not like many foreign singers' songs which were sung in both their mother-tongue and Korean! It took me nearly 3 hours to download this, and I wasn't in any hurry, so consider my experience. In the daily scrolling news in Taiwan, the Tower of Tan Dun was also listed. You may consider that to be a major news item. Like I said before, it is almost impossible to understand the lyrics (Mandarin). A few days ago, I searched for some information about this, and then heard about this Taiwanese folk band 'The adventures of Fei-Duanmu', and found a kick ass version of Tower of Tan Dun. So grab a cup of tea and listen to this. You know you love it right? It's dang good, take my word for it! :D The Adventures of Fei-Duanmu >Overview Simply put, it's a homage to Tan Dun's Tower of Tan Dun. It's basically one man who has worked all by himself to create this feel. Yes, this is not an official production. It was just some fan's musical appreciation of Tan Dun's composing style with a simple percussion/piano only. Fei-Duanmu is a young music enthusiast, described as "feeling feverish". Fei Duanmu >Ver1 (Unofficial Version) During his leisure time, Fei Duanmu gets obsessed with Tower of Tan Dun since childhood. He just can't stop listening to it. Everything he does, he is very particular with how he should play it. Since he was always in a similar environment, whenever he was getting pissed, the first thought that took his brain was that of Tower of Tan Dun... He was so constantly thinking about Tower of Tan Dun, that he passed out and dreaming about it. After a while, he heard that there was a guy called Tan Dun in the whole
