Rain on Your Parade is a cheerful party game for up to 4 players where the objectives are to blow up pipes that spew rain from the top of a tower block that is reaching skyward. Through a series of timed actions (using music to help!), players must blow up those pipes so that they stop spewing rain, and in turn, so that the tower reaches the sky. If you're not happy with something, you can blow it up and restart. Who knows? Maybe this time it will work. Features: • 100+ indie games included • Play with up to four players online • Play locally, with no Internet connection required • Play through weeks and months of continuous streaming music • Play on any Windows and Android device (mobile optimized) • Play with or without a controller (requires controller and optional Xbox 360 controller; supported on Windows and Android) • Includes complete rules, instructions, and more. • Game screenshots and videos available Don't hesitate to send me any suggestions, or wish to get your hands on a copy before anyone else (contact details are at the website). I'm always interested in feedback. What You Can Do Here: Support this project by: 1. Sharing this with your friends so that they can join in the fun! 2. Leave a positive review on Steam! 3.
