Here is the entire code: My solution is:

var ul = document.getElementById("navlist"); if (ul.style.display == "inline-block") { ul.style.display = "none"; } This is working but is ugly and isn't efficient because there are a lot of if/else statements. Any better solution? A: You can use.querySelector with #navlist to get a direct match: var ul = document.querySelector("#navlist"); if (ul.style.display == "inline-block") { ul.style.display = "none"; } Alternatively, you can use #navitems :nth-child(n) to select a specific one. Demo: var ul = document.querySelectorAll("#navlist > div"); if (ul[0].style.display == "inline-block") { ul[0].style.display = "none"; } 1
