EEG based hypersynchronous dynamics analysis for epileptic seizure detection. In this paper, a novel hypersynchronous dynamics analysis method is presented. Hypersynchrony refers to the bursts of simultaneous neural activity. We propose to extract the epileptiform activity of multi-unit EEG signal by means of hypersynchronous measures that are able to quantify this local neuronal activity. A Global Desynchronization Index (GDI) is defined to efficiently identify the presence of epileptic activity while a Local Desynchronization Index (LDI) quantifies the degree of local hypersynchrony in the given time interval. A two-stage procedure is used to classify the recorded EEG signals into one of the two classes: seizure or non-seizure EEG signals. The first stage consists of a k-Nearest Neighbour (k-NN) classification model applied to the hypersynchronous time series derived from the EEGs and LDI. The outputs of the k-NN model are then used by a rule-based expert system to label the EEGs as seizure or non-seizure. The use of the two measures, GDI and LDI, in conjunction with k-NN has proven to be a promising approach to accurately diagnose the type of seizure, as confirmed by both the results of the study and other published research. 2013 AFL premiership season The 2013 AFL premiership season, known as the 2013 Toyota AFL Premiership Season for sponsorship reasons, was the 113th season of the elite Australian rules football competition and the 95th season of second division competition contested across Australia since its inception in 1897. The season was played over eighteen (18) regular home-and-away season rounds; the top eight teams then progressed to the finals series, culminating in the 2013 AFL Grand Final, played on Friday 4 September 2013 at the Melbourne Cricket Ground. On 4 February 2013, the Adelaide Football Club's Paul Chapman became the youngest player in VFL/AFL history to reach the 300-game milestone. He was 32 years and 119 days old, surpassing Norm Smith, who had been the previous holder at 33 years and 7 months. Geelong defeated Hawthorn by 57 points to win its 15th premiership. It was the seventh time Hawthorn had failed to win a premiership since its inception in 1897. Hawthorn had also failed to beat Geelong in a Grand Final since 1965. Q: How to enable ContextMenu mode for SurfaceView? I have SurfaceView and i want to open context menu on mouse click. How to enable it? A: It is possible on Android 2.2+ devices. Make sure your activity is an activity, not a service. Or, try setting a touch listener on the SurfaceView, and have that listener call through to the activity. You'll have to read up a bit on touch events (and try some sample code). A: Just use simple callback method for the same ( also custom menu):

public void surfaceCreated(SurfaceHolder holder) { // TODO Auto-generated method stub openContextMenu(mSurfaceView.getHolder());
public void openContextMenu(final View target) { Toast.makeText(target.getContext(), "Context Menu is open", Toast.LENGTH_SHORT).show();
    showContextMenu(target);
}
public void showContextMenu(View target) {
    final PopupMenu popup = new PopupMenu(target.getContext(), target);
    popup.getMenuInflater().inflate(R.menu.custom_menu, popup.getMenu());
    popup.setOnMenuItemClickListener(new OnMenuItemClickListener() { @Override public boolean onMenuItemClick(MenuItem item) {
            return false;
        }
    });
}
```
