windows 8.1 single language with bing downloadFlexibility The Diveon-2N has been designed to be the ultimate compact, light and user-friendly pump. A simple size to travel with and a fantastic option for a range of applications. Perfect for high performance day time diving, reef and cave filming, the Diveon-2N is also a versatile air source for the action cine market, a low cost/high quality alternative to a standard shore based air compressor or tank. The Diveon-2N is available in various models suited to the specific needs of your application. To learn about the different models, contact us. "I had been looking for a lightweight air compressor that I could actually use underwater. The Diveon-2N is perfect – it's able to completely replace my old pump, yet does not take up any room in my camera bag. The air compressor literally "fits in my hand" and the air output has been huge, even at maximum output. I have been getting up to 30 minutes continuous use on my corals."Effect of bioadhesion on biofilm formation by Streptococcus pneumoniae and other oral bacteria. Resistance to antimicrobial agents among bacteria has emerged as a major challenge in the field of medicine. It is known that adhesion properties are involved in biofilm formation of Streptococcus pneumoniae and that these properties are influenced by the surface properties of the material, which act as receptors for bacterial adhesion. The aim of this study was to identify the effects of adhesion to insoluble surfaces on biofilm formation by oral bacteria. We evaluated the effects of adhesion to hydroxyapatite and silica on biofilm formation by Streptococcus pneumoniae and non Streptococcus species, using confocal laser scanning microscopy, plate counts, and scanning electron microscopy. There was a significant decrease in the number of viable S. pneumoniae in silica and hydroxyapatite disks when compared with the control. In general, adhesion to hydroxyapatite promoted more biofilm development, but inhibition was observed when S. pneumoniae was grown on hydroxyapatite, similar to the results observed for silica. Biofilm formation of Streptococcus sobrinus, S. mutans, and Streptococcus sanguis was enhanced by adhesion to hydroxyapatite, especially S. sobrinus

Neymar is all but out of the World Cup after suffering what appears to be a knee injury while scoring his 100th goal for Brazil on Tuesday. The Brazilian star was carted off in the closing minutes of the 7-1 win over Croatia at the Mineirao Stadium, leaving his nation in a lurch for the remaining two group matches. If he's out for the remainder of the tournament, it will have a major impact on the opening match between Brazil and Croatia, which is being played at the Maracana, as Brazil will need to field a completely different team. Neymar had been expected to be a main contributor for the hosts, but was beaten to the ball by France superstar Kylian Mbappe in the team's opening match, a 3-0 win over Denmark. LeBron James was named the game's MVP. This will be the first time since 2007 that the Miami Heat's big three are all on the same team. James, the 6-foot-8 forward, and Kyrie Irving are 5-foot-10 on the Heat and Dahntay Jones is 6-foot-6. "We are definitely not a three-way team," James said, according to ESPN. "Our three guys are all different sizes." With the Heat winning their first four games, the Celtics – currently leading the Eastern Conference – have some serious ground to make up with LeBron. If they're to make it to the playoffs, they'll need to play their best game of the season in the next week against the Heat. LeBron spent the beginning of his career playing alongside Wade, the 6-8 forward who retired in 2014. But the pair are no longer together, with Wade leaving for the Western Conference in 2016. LeBron, however, is playing more efficiently than he has in the past, helping lift him to an NBA-best PER of 25.7, putting him ahead of reigning MVP James Harden and Kevin Durant, the second-best player in the league. Let's take a look at some of the best plays he
