The leader of an Islamic State-affiliated group in Afghanistan claimed responsibility Saturday for the bombing of a mosque in the Afghan capital that killed at least 137 people. The attack in the city of Jalalabad on Friday, claimed by the Taliban-led insurgency, was one of the worst in Kabul for more than a decade. The U.N.'s top humanitarian official condemned the attack as "another form of terrorism" and said the U.N. World Food Program will provide emergency aid to families in the region. On Saturday, the militant Islamic State group's Amaq news agency said the Jalalabad bombing was carried out by its Khorasan branch. The Taliban claimed responsibility for the attack in a statement posted on its website. It said the attackers were disguised as officers of the Afghan police and defected after the bombing. The head of the Afghan Interior Ministry, Nasrat Rahimi, spoke to reporters in Jalalabad and said the ministry was taking control of the investigation. He said the death toll was likely to rise. He said the attackers set off three bombs outside the mosque and left a fourth unexploded. "One of the IEDs was detonated," Rahimi said.

IObit Advanced SystemCare Ultimate 11.1.0.92.Q: MassTransit: Scheduling a job execution Suppose I have a C# console application that needs to get a message from a message queue and execute a long running process. The application will execute the job as a console program and will terminate at some point. I am using MassTransit and also using SQL Server. I want the message to be scheduled using the SQL server scheduler. I've done some searching but I can't seem to find any example of such a design. A: This looks like a perfect case for a Saga. As long as the console app is single-threaded, the 6d1f23a050
