El caso del creador de lee strobel pdf en la universidad de paderborn Biggest profit, highest turnover and biggest surplus in history. With that kind of financial performance, it's little wonder that Emirates has been rewarded with a vote of confidence from the International Air Transport Association (IATA). The Dubai-based airline has been voted the World's Best Low Cost Carrier for the first time. According to the annual survey, with polling of over 500 global carriers and passengers, United was named the overall Best Airline in the world. Allegedly thanks to its partnership with Etihad. Emirates will be disappointed to have been usurped by its on-again, off-again partner, who has had a long history of success and failure when it comes to the on-time performance of its flights. Of course, it is pretty much a forgone conclusion that US carriers will always come out on top, with United being the number one carrier in the world. Etihad has a lot riding on these rankings. In fact, it has the most to lose as it has a massive list of Qantas flights to close before the end of 2012. However, in the category of Best Regional Airline in the World, Etihad comes out on top. The only other countries to feature in this category are Turkey (run by Istanbul-based Onur Air), Nepal, and Vietnam. The best low cost carrier award is long overdue. Part of the reason that
