A universal HVAC ASHRAE Duct Fitting Database app is a perfect solution for HVAC designers and installers who want to get the most detailed information at their fingertips. During installation, designers and installers may be required to perform these calculations manually, which can be time-consuming, difficult or a. Featuring pictorial outlines of each fitting, this database is useful to design engineers dealing with a variety of duct fittings. For any given fitting, . ASHRAE Duct Fitting Database app; ASHRAE Certified Duct Fitting Database; Application Version 5.2. ASHRAE, 2002; ASHRAE, 2002; Author: ASHRAE, 2002; ASHRAE, 2002. Rather than compute these and subsequent pressure losses over the entire duct, the computed pressure loss of each segment is also provided. For every duct fitting, . # 1 ASHRAE 2002 Duct Fitting Database 1 # 2 ASHRAE 2002 Standard Reference Section The ASHRAE Duct Fitting Database (DFDB) allows designers to enter the air flow coefficient and pressure drop for any single fitting or for the pressure loss of the entire duct. It is also possible to compare the pressure loss of various duct fittings, as well as the performance of a given fitting in an existing air duct. When entering a fitting, it is also possible to choose between SI or I-P units and the result is displayed in either case. The ASHRAE Duct Fitting Database is based on the book ASHRAE Duct Fitting Database, Ashrae, 2002. The compilation that is downloadable from this website contains the latest revision of this database. . If you need a Reference Section updated or created, enter the details into the program, select the source book or download the revision from the book.
